

Professional right from the start - The Wiha Tool Case Basic Set L electric as the ideal standard equipment

Since June 2020, hand tool manufacturer Wiha has been offering the 34-piece Tool Case Basic Set L electric with essential equipment as a special offer until the end of the year in specialist shops. The compact case set is designed both for prospective electricians starting out on their careers and for professional craftsmen in various fields with a basic need for professional tools for electrotechnical applications.

The equipment consists of ergonomic SoftFinish slimFix electric screwdrivers, various VDE pliers solutions, a folding ruler and other electric hand tool solutions. These lay the foundation for equipment that makes everyday work easier for professionals, increases efficiency and ensures safety. For example, the extra slim, insulated blades of the slimFix screwdrivers easily reach deep-set screw elements. The LiftUp electric screwdriver magazine bit holder with six slimBits inside the handle, also included in the set, provides maximum flexibility for different fastening jobs. A further highlight is the Wiha electrician's spirit level, which has become the TOP seller in the Wiha range since its market launch thanks to its useful functional design for applications in the electrical field.

All insulated, VDE certified tools are individually tested at 10,000 V AC and approved for 1,000 V AC. Inside the case concept is additional storage space for additional tools, small parts and machines. With a capacity of 20 litres, an ergonomic two-component carrying handle, eyelets for padlocks for theft protection and other features, the Basic Set L electric meets a wide range of requirements for conveniently carrying tools during mobile operations.

"When developing the tool case itself, it was important to us to combine and implement the high-quality standards of function, design and robustness in exactly the same way as the larger predecessors of our electricians' assortment cases. The result shows that even a compact case format can meet the demanding professional criteria and become an eye-catcher on the construction site," explains Mario Sommer, Marketing Manager at Wiha.

The 34-piece case can be expanded at any time from Wiha's wide range of electrical products.
